Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurThis memoir is about time "in country," as GIs in Vietnam called it. In the words of Ed Callison: "Soon after going across the pond, I learned that most of the news that was reported back in the States was fiction; I discovered for myself what the true nature of war was...'hours of boredom punctuated by moments of terror,' and came to appreciate our heroic efforts to help the people of South Vietnam resist communism -- perhaps somewhat flawed in execution, but noble in purpose.Prsentation de l'diteurThis memoir is about time "in country," as GIs in Vietnam called it.
